Proof Argument for Lineage on NSSAR Applications

Name of Applicant: Timothy Allen Quinn National Number ____________

Ancestor Being Researched: Caleb Quinn Patriot # P.

What Relationship or Fact do you wish to Prove:

This analysis seeks to demonstrate that Jesse Quinn (12 December 1794 – 22 January 1860) was the son of Patriot Caleb Quinn (c.1745–1833) of Duplin County, North Carolina.

Records Searched with NO successful outcome:

No known surviving record has been located that explicitly identifies Jesse Quinn as a son of Caleb Quinn. A reasonably exhaustive search was conducted of Duplin County estate records, wills, deeds, land grants, court records, census records, mortality schedules, cemetery records, family Bible records, military records, FamilySearch, Ancestry, and available local historical and genealogical collections. No record was found naming Jesse Quinn's father; however, no record was found identifying any other plausible father for Jesse Quinn in Duplin County during the relevant period.

JESSE & SUSAN QUINN FAMILY BIBLE

Circa Early 1800's

Date: Friday, April 10, 2009
Transcribed by: T. Allen Quinn

Our family bible is in fair condition especially given its age. The bible is currently privately held by Kim Peacock in Raleigh, NC and has been rebound to aid in its preservation. Thanks to Kim for taking such good care of the bible handed down to her after her grandmother's death.

There are lost pages of all variety as a matter only of being nearly 200 years old. The original front cover was missing when I first examined the bible in April of 2009. The back cover was present, but was not attached to the rebound edition and it appears to have a few pages fused to the back binding page. The rebound bible is missing the following individual books along with what the original bible publisher notes describe as pages that should have been present:

- First Pages of Publication Information
- First Pages or Table of Contents
- Pages of Family History
- Parts Of Hebrews
- All Of James
- All Of 1 Peter
- All Of 2 Peter
- All Of 1 John
- All Of 2 John
- All Of 3 John
- All Of Jude
- All Of Revelation
- Any Subsequent Pages

Inside the bible there were 4 pages that bore hand written information. These pages were after the weights and measures pages that separated the Old Testament from the New Testament.

In the forthcoming pages you will find the births, deaths and marriage pages with a transcription to immediately follow. Parts of the pages with the transcriptions are intentionally left blank in an effort to keep the pages corresponding to their transcriptions.

Cemeteries and Gravestones

There are two cemeteries on Beautancus Rd. In the Wolfscrape TWP just south of Mount Olive, NC and they are listed on the above map. The cemetery on top is the Calvin Jernigan Cemetery but has many names including the Old Shine Cemetery and the one on the bottom is the Best Quinn Cemetery maintained by Dr. Phillis Quinn Ostheim that owns the lands surrounding this area of unbroken in many cases Quinn lands in this area of Duplin County.

In 2009, I unearthed the Susan Quinn headstone on the west side of the fence in the adjoining pasture area as I was shuffling around and noticed the alabaster white of the headstone beneath the ground's surface.

A kind and warm thank you should be conveyed to Mr. Rouse Ivey for his assistance and introduction to Mr. Jerry Grady, the property owner. The physical address is 575 Beautancus Road, Mount Olive, North Carolina and is in Duplin County.

As the map above depicts there is another cemetery identified 2500 feet NNW on Beautancus Road that I identify here as the Jesse Brown Quinn cemetery. This cemetery is maintained by our cousin A.D. Quinn who lives at 778 Beautancus Road, or just WNW of the location. A.D. and Mr. Rouse were unaware that the cemetery on Mr. Grady's property was the final resting place for any Quinn's, or Jernigans. The cemetery is locally known as the Old Shine cemetery, but the Quinn's predate the Shine & other Jernigan family members interred here.

Jesse Brown Quinn was the son of Ziphia Brown and Jesse Quinn, Sr., his first wife. Susan Jernigan was the second wife if Jesse Quinn, Sr. and their son Watson Franklin Quinn is the half brother of Jesse Brown Quinn.

There are many old Quinn & Jernigan cemeteries on Beautancus Road and Red Hill Road which at the intersection of Summerlin's Crossroads as you travel east toward Summerlin's Cross Roads on Beautancus Road the road's name changes to Red Hill Road. Also traveling back towards Mount Olive the name again changes names to County Line Road as you cross over into Wayne County, North Carolina. The road is further identified as SR (State Road) 1306.

The discovery of this cemetery could not have been accomplished without some very old cemetery survey notes for Duplin County that were prepared by Lillian & Pearl Houston. Thanks to both of you for the many years of hard work tramping through the mud, weeds, woods and briar patches.

The Jesse Quinn bible show those interred there since Susan Quinn began the family bible with her husband Jesse.

Exhibit J

- Supporting family correspondence and associated records establishing the continuity of the Quinn family network in Duplin County can only be located as of the writing of this application at https://altchive.org/node/281 where copyright information exists.

Explain how the sources support the relationship or fact.

Caleb Quinn conveyed land directly to Jesse Quinn in Duplin County, North Carolina. Following Caleb Quinn's death in 1833, Jesse Quinn was appointed administrator of his estate and was responsible for the inventory, sale, and settlement of estate affairs. These responsibilities were ordinarily entrusted to a close family member or heir.

"The administrator's bond for Virginia 'Jane' Quinn further demonstrates Jesse Quinn's close involvement in the settlement of the estate of Caleb Quinn's widow and is consistent with his position as a member of the immediate family."

Jesse Quinn remained associated with the same Quinn family network documented in Caleb Quinn's records. The family Bible identifies Jesse Quinn, records his birth in 1794, and documents the next generation of his family. Jesse Quinn's will, probate records, mortality schedule, and family cemetery consistently identify him as the head of the Quinn family line descending through Watson Franklin Quinn and Jesse Brown Quinn.

A reasonably exhaustive search failed to locate any record identifying another Quinn male of the appropriate age, residence, and circumstances who could reasonably be considered Jesse Quinn's father. The available evidence consistently places Caleb Quinn and Jesse Quinn in a direct familial and property relationship and supports the conclusion that Jesse Quinn was Caleb Quinn's son.

Conclusion

Although no surviving document has been located that explicitly states that Jesse Quinn was the son of Caleb Quinn, the cumulative evidence from land records, estate administration, probate records, family Bible records, mortality records, cemetery evidence, and family associations constitutes a strong indirect proof of the relationship. The evidence supports the conclusion that Jesse Quinn (1794–1860) was the son of Patriot Caleb Quinn of Duplin County, North Carolina.

I do hereby recognize and acknowledge this 47 page form to be a true representation of the evidence contained in the submitted documents to support the above analysis. I also understand that the documentation submitted as proof is subject to SAR standards and interpretation. SAR staff reserves the right to annotate the submitted analysis.
